RW Buff Inc. Undertakes Restoration Project in Historic Glenbrook Area of Stroudsburg

RW Buff Inc. will utilize their signature approach to construction on this project through the use of reclaimed and antique materials.

RW Buff Inc. has begun a large scale restoration and renovation construction project on a home in the historic Glenbrook area of Stroudsburg, PA. This home represents the most recent RW Buff Inc. project to use antique and reclaimed materials.

RW Buff Inc. has restored and renovated many Pocono region homes using the creative application of antique and period replica materials in overall construction and design.

Completed RW Buff Inc. projects using this approach include a 1800s Cherry Valley Farmhouse and a Stroudsmoor Road home, among others.

"Restoration and renovation projects using antique and reclaimed materials have become popular in recent years among owners of prestige homes," explains Bob Buff, owner and president of RW Buff Inc. "Homeowners undertaking renovations and restorations want to transform their home into a unique showpiece and that is exactly what historic and antique materials accomplish."

For the Glenbrook project, R.W Buff Inc. has sourced materials from Hawley and Port Jervis, PA. The element playing a large role in the renovation is old sidewalk material of antique blue stone, a native Pennsylvania stone material.

“Although the Glenbrook home is not the first renovation and restoration project we have completed using antique and reclaimed materials, it is the first to use so much sourced from the Pocono Mountain region,” says Buff.

Through long standing relationships with regional craftsman trained in sourcing and handling antique materials, RW Buff Inc. is uniquely able to obtain authentic materials and period replicas suited for a vast range of project types across numerous time periods. Examples of RW Buff Inc.'s accomplishments in the area of historic renovation and restoration include the sourcing and use of antique barn beams and barn siding as flooring and structural accents; use of antique bricks for interiors, patios and walkways; and creation of historically accurate doors, windows, stair railings, and ironwork elements.
